A site plan is required to be submitted with any development/building permit application for the construction/location of new structures or additions to existing structures.

Failure to provide adequate information may cause delays in the issuance of your permit.

Please see below for an example of the information that should be included on your site plan:

- A. Front, rear and side yard setbacks
- B. Distance from the property boundary line to the center of the driveway
- C. Property boundary dimensions (all sides)
- D. Distance to existing buildings
- E. Location of proposed septic
- F. Location of proposed well
- G. North indicator
- H. Distance to watercourses such as lakes, brooks, etc.
- I. Name of the street/road that your driveway access is on
- J. Length and width of the proposed structure/addition

Please see the backside of this page to create your own diagram. Your site plan should include all of the above information that applies to your proposed project.
